Roberto and I were walking through the park, talking about our latest baseball game. Marcy came zooming up on her bike.

“Get out of my way, Toocool, or I’ll squash you like a lemon.”

We leaped off the bike path and into the bushes. Marcy raced past us.

“Toocool, check out the bulletin board,” she yelled.

Roberto and I walked over to the board. It said:

Drivers Wanted
TC Park, Gocart Race.

I told them all to give up while they could—I was going to be a famous race car driver. I told them this gocart race was only the beginning of my amazing racing career.
