A Perfect Swing

My feet were in the correct position. I looked up at the green, then back at the ball. My swing was perfect.

What a shot!

Or was it?

The ball drifted to the right.
It hit the wall. A small chunk of plaster fell out.

The ball shot to the left.

CRASH!

Dog ran for the door.

The vase came crashing down in slow motion.

My heart was pounding like a jackhammer.

I didn't need to be told twice. I was out of there.

Mom never understood. I kept telling her I had to practice. Practice makes perfect.

I had been planning to ask if I could stay home from school to practice my golf game.

I decided to ask later.
